wtl series for hot rolling lines was designed for inline measurement and optimization in the hot forming of metals. Based on the latest radar and IT technology, the solution measures object geometries, even under the harsh production conditions in metal forming, with sub-millimeter precision.

For the Europe-wide market launch of wtl series for hot rolling lines, mecorad is funded with an “MEP grant” from the European Regional Development Fund. The launch to market is co-financed by tax funds based on the budget decided by the Saxon state parliament.

The MEP grant supports in particular design and supporting design services, norming, standardization and certification, protection of the product, marketing, sales, advertising and the production of serial samples or pilot series.
